Locals do: It's not just a market.

At the Farmers Market, Uppsala is a concrete example of how to do local business support while giving Uppsala residents a great place to shop. At the Farmers Market, visitors experience a sea of colours, a friendly atmosphere, fresh goods and delicious delicacies, produced at farms just around the corner. Fresh local produce, produced with care.

Local treats: At the Farmers Market, Uppsala, one of Europe's fastest growing regions, has a range of settings, activities and people with all kinds of backgrounds and needs. The surrounding countryside plays an important role as a place for small businesses, such as farms producing handmade, delicious delicacies. The Farmers Market is Uppsala's answer to how to boost local businesses and support while giving Uppsala residents great places to shop.